

Just started your studies at the EPFL?
Already wondering what career options will be open to you when you finish?

Here at McKinsey & Company, one of the world's leading management consulting firms, we employ many EPFL graduates as consultants. Working from our offices in Geneva and Zurich, these consultants support our clients on a wide range of topics.

To find out more about us, our people, and why many EPFL graduates decide to become consultants, come and join us at the EPFL campus on

Thursday, April 25, 2013 from 18:30 to 20:00, Auditorium MXF1

You'll hear about the great variety of client studies our consultants work on – from expanding mining operations in Africa to rolling out a pharmaceuticals initiative in Europe and many more exciting examples! The session will be followed by drinks and finger food, during which time you'll have the chance to chat informally with consultants from our Geneva office.

McKinsey & Company is a leading international management consulting firm with around 90 offices in about 50 countries. The Swiss office (Zurich and Geneva) comprises nearly 200 consultants. We serve major, mostly international companies from all important industries as well as non-profit organizations and other institutions. Together with client's top management, McKinsey consultants develop innovative solutions to strategic, operational, and organizational problems.

Specialist consultants from our Business Technology Office (BTO) work on strategic IT projects and other specialists are engaged in projects in the area of corporate finance.

Worldwide, McKinsey follows the same company objective: "to help our clients make distinctive, lasting, and substantial improvements in their performance, and to build a great firm that is able to attract, develop, excite, and retain exceptional people."
